Columnist Art Buchwald Talks on Life, Government

By STAN TAYLOR
News Editor

Art Buchwald, the syndicated columnist who makes a point of pointing out the incongruities of society, will make an attempt to revive the almost extinct art of satire, 8:30 p.m. Monday, Nov. 30 in the Men's Gym.

Buchwald's talk is sponsored by the college Athenaeum Series and is free to students. Members of the community will be able to pick up tickets at the door for $1.

After spending 14 years in Europe, mostly in Paris, Buchwald is presently encamped in Washington, D.C.

From this location he is able to find material for the many spoofs of government men and policy that readers of 180 papers around the world read with sometimes passionate interest.

Starting his journalistic career in World War II as the editor of his company newspaper in the Pacific Theater, Buchwald returned to this country after the war and enrolled at USC.

S.C. Versatility

While at Southern Cal he held down positions on the college humor magazine, the Daily Trojan (as columnist) and also wrote the script for a variety show.

Never to be satisfied standing still, Buchwald traded his war bonus check for a one-way ticket to Paris. Available funds soon ran out, forcing him to look for work. In a short time he was able to talk a newspaper editor into letting him write a Paris night life column.

This gave Buchwald the chance to write and also to eat in the better restaurants about town. Even today Buchwald says "I don't know which I like better, writing or French night life."

Method to 'Madness'

Most writers describe the process they go through while writing as something to be avoided if at all possible. Not Buchwald. His method is a combination of half-celebrity and half-international playboy.

Buchwald rises late in the morning, reads the paper, sits in the famous sidewalk cafes (from which many stories eventually come) and strolls into his study after lunch to write his column. After this he walks down to the newspaper office and leaves the story.

Sightseer, Conversationalist

The rest of the day is taken up with meeting friends, dignitaries and escorting visitors around the city.

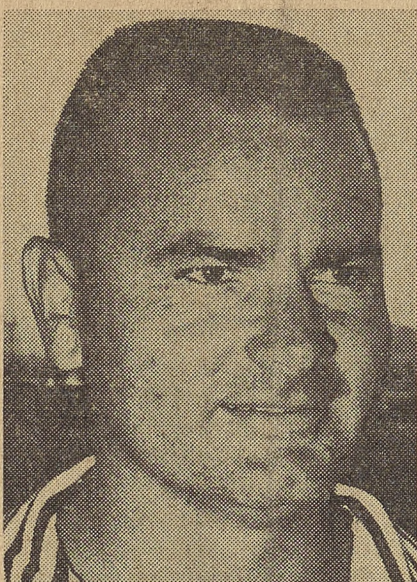

In addition to his daily columns, Buchwald has written nine books. His most recent is "I Chose Capital Punishment," which the author modestly describes as "one of the best books I have ever read. I can hardly lay it down."

NO STAR

There will not be a Valley Star next Thursday as the editors and staff of the Star, and the nation, pause for the Thanksgiving holiday.

The Star will again appear on the newsstands of the Valley campus two weeks from today, Thursday, Dec. 3.

Valley College students will get a four day weekend as classes held Wednesday, Nov. 25 will be the last until the following Monday, Nov. 30.

GEORGE GOFF
New Head Football Coach

Goff Replaces Ker As Football Coach Beginning in 1965

By STEVE CHATON
Sports Editor

As the 1964 football season draws to a close the announcement has been made that George Goff has been selected to head the Monarch grid team next year.

The announcement was made last Tuesday by college President William J. McNellis in a meeting with the heads of the physical education department.

Goff will replace George Ker, who has held down the head coaching position since 1962. During the past year, Goff has assisted Ker as the backfield coach and contributed largely to the successful year the Valley team has enjoyed.

Before coming to Valley, Goff was head coach at Birmingham High School in Van Nuys. In his brilliant career as coach at Birmingham, Goff achieved a remarkable 44 win 11 loss record while leading the Braves to two city titles and two undefeated seasons.

At Valley, his success has continued. Ben McFarland, athletic director at Valley, said, "Coach Goff is an outstanding leader and has contributed immensely to the improved season we have had this year."

The announcement was no surprise to many, including Goff, and has left the coach with many decisions for next year. As far as the future goes, Goff says, "I have accepted the position with the idea of coaching a winning team next year and I see no reason why we can't win."

"One of my main plans is to further the recruitment program," Goff continued. "The graduating high school football player must be made to realize that the junior college is an opportunity to play a new and better brand of ball."

With the selection of Goff as the new coach, Ker will step down and concentrate entirely on the track team. For the last three years Ker has had the double chores of heading the football and track teams.

In the three years that Ker has had the football team he has had anything but a bed of roses. In 1962, Ker's first

Concert Series Hosts Noted Local Pianist

Mrs. Lynn Wilgus Lewis, noted pianist of Granada Hills, will be the guest artist at the Campus Concert series Tuesday at 11 a.m. in the Choral Room of the Music Building.

Her program will include "Beethoven's Sonata, Opus 57" and his "Etude in A Minor, Opus 55 No. 2," "Ravel's Jeux d'Eau" and "Debussy's L'Isle Joyeuse." She will conclude the program with "Creston's Tarentella."

Winner of the Mu Phi Epsilon Sterling Staff Concert Series national auditions this year, Mrs. Lewis has appeared as soloist with many orchestras including the Fresno Philharmonic, San Gabriel Symphony, Chicago Symphony and the University of Southern California Symphony.

As soloist, she has performed in Rosinal Lhevinne's Master Classes in Berkeley and Los Angeles; for the San Fernando Valley Symphony League; for the Society of Arts and Letters and, in her senior recital, at the University of Southern California.

Mrs. Lewis has won many awards in the National Society of Arts and in her musical career. She placed first Letters, Los Angeles, the Fresno Philharmonic Orchestra competition, the University of Southern California Symphony Orchestra auditions, the San Gabriel Symphony Orchestra competition and the Chicago Symphony Orchestra Youth Concert auditions.

She has had an extensive education in music. Among others, she studied at Fort Collins, Colo., De Paul University, Chicago, Chicago Musical College and at the University of California.

The next concert, which will take place on Dec. 1, will feature Janice Wheeler, soprano.

The concert is free and the public is invited.

OES Hosts Two Leaders

Valley's Occupational Exploration Series will host Mrs. Betty Taylor, executive secretary to the president of California Federal Savings and Loan Association, in Los Angeles Tuesday. She will speak and discuss "The Secretary on the Telephone," at 11 a.m. in C 100.

Judge Richard Schauer of the Los Angeles Municipal Court, will speak to students on "Opportunities in the Legal Profession," Dec. 1 at 11 a.m. in C 100.

Mrs. Taylor, who is speaking on behalf of VAES, has worked with California Federal since 1951, and has been secretary to Howard Edgerton, president, since 1959. She is a corporate officer of California Federal in the position of assistant secretary. Mrs. Taylor attended UCLA for two years and the University of Detroit for one year.

Judge Schauer, obtained his B.A. at Occidental College and took his graduate courses at UCLA. He practiced law in Los Angeles until last year when he was appointed to his present office of Municipal Court judge.

United Crusade Receives $1,200

The recently completed United Crusade fund raising drive has been most successful, according to Dr. Lawrence Snipper, coordinator of the campaign.

"Student response to this one charity campaign was highly gratifying. The clubs and individual students were very enthusiastic and really did a good job," he said.

To date more than $1200 has been collected. Dr. Snipper expressed the opinion that the total may exceed $1500 when the tabulations are completed.

"With response like this, it is hoped that next year students will organize and execute the campaign entirely," said Dr. Snipper.

Honorary Journalism Fraternity Holds First National Convention

Beta Phi Gamma, national honorary journalistic fraternity, held its first national convention at Valley College last weekend which was climaxed with a contest awards presentation luncheon. Featured guest speaker was Ray Bradbury, nationally known science fiction writer.

The convention, hosted by the Valley College chapter of Beta Phi Gamma, began Friday afternoon with the arrival of 135 delegates from 14 colleges in Southern California.

Earl Theisen, senior photographer of Look magazine, gave a demonstration of magazine photography with model Judy Carne, star of the popular television series "Baileys of Balboa." Then student photographers tried out Theisen's advice as they entered the convention's first on-the-spot contest, using Valley coeds as models.

The opening banquet on Friday evening in the Valley cafeteria, featured Robert Barsky, a member of the Los Angeles Air Pollution Control Board, with a speech on "Smog in the Los Angeles Area."

From the speech came two of the on-the-spot contests. News and editorial writing contests were based on the speech.

Feature writers attended the Valley Theater Arts presentation of Medea and then wrote play reviews.

The Birmingham-Chatsworth football game at Monarch Stadium provided the grounds for the sports writing and photography contests.

Saturday morning, the guests were treated to a behind the scenes look at Universal Studios. At noon, the awards banquet was held and the winners of the various contests were announced.

In the sweepstakes category, an over-all evaluation, Cerritos College placed first, followed by El Camino College and Santa Ana and San Diego City Colleges. As host of the convention, Valley entered only the mail-in contests, not the on-the-spot contests. Valley placed one point behind second place El Camino but, as host, withdrew from the sweepstakes awards.

Roger Karraker, president of the local Alpha Theta Chapter of Beta Phi Gamma, called the convention "an unqualified success" and expressed regret only that "more colleges didn't participate."

Desert Island Farce Begins in December

"A bit of fluff" defines the second major theater production of the semester, "The Little Hut" by Andre Roussin, according to director Patrick Riley. The farce comedy is scheduled to run in the Horseshoe Theater Wednesday, Dec. 2 through Saturday, Dec. 5 and Wednesday, Dec. 9 through Saturday, Dec. 12.

The just-for-fun production stars Jay Shapiro as Henry; Pat McAllister as Philip, Henry's best friend; and Dolly Kogan as Susan, Henry's lover and Philip's wife. Jan Crawford plays the stranger.

The scene is set on a desert island where Susan, Henry and Philip are shipwrecked. The three compatriots have been stranded on the island for 23 days at the opening of the play, during which time Henry has been staying in a separate hut, with Susan and Philip sharing a hut.

Henry, deciding that he cannot go on in this manner any longer, proceeds to tell Philip of his affair with Susan. The two friends then work out a plan whereby they can share Susan on an alternate week basis, to which she readily agrees. The situation becomes complicated with the appearance of the stranger.

No Message

"There is no message in the play," said Riley, "it is designed strictly for the sake of entertaining." The play is light-weight enjoyment of what can happen when people are placed in a silly situation, Riley said.

Originally the play was produced on a proscenium stage, but has been adapted to the Horseshoe Theater for Valley's presentation. Sets, story and characters are not quite real, but are exaggerated for the sake of fun.

Susan is a slightly scatter-brained woman with a solution for every problem. She is, for the most part, illogical, and appears to be "not quite with us," according to Riley.

Philip, a financier, makes a number of probable financial discoveries while on the island, including the use of coconut milk as a medical aid and the oyster for shaving purposes.

Henry, as well as the other two characters, is an extremely easy going man who outwardly admits that he would never consider marrying his lover Susan, even if it were possible.

For Entertainment

"The play doesn't pretend to be anything it is not," said Riley. "It is meant to be entertaining, and nothing more," Riley said. The set, designed by Dean Cushman, is characterized by numerous special effects and fanciful foliage, and the actors are clad in evening attire.

Stage manager for the production is Nick Smirnoff, and lights are handled by Kendall Copperberg.

A.S. Leaders Attend State Conference

Discussion and recommendation of resolutions to the state legislature on a state-wide level will take place today through Saturday when the California Junior College Student Government Association meets at Vandenberg Inn in Santa Maria.

Attending the conference are William E. Lewis, dean of students; and Miss Ruby Zuber, coordinator of student activities.

Student officers attending are Brent Carruth, A.S. president; Larry Bohanan, vice president; Russ Woodward, treasurer; Kriss Wagner, AWS president; and Jean Stern, coordinator of campus services.

Legislation to be discussed includes acceptance of fraternities onto junior college campuses; endorsement of freedom of the press on editorial pages of college newspapers; and establishing a uniform transfer system within the California educational system.

Of freedom of the press, Carruth said, "We (Area 4 conference representatives) endorsed this motion because we feel the college newspaper should be the independent spokesman of the college community and should not be dictated to by anyone."

"In many schools, although not at Valley, the student councils feel that they can dictate to the papers and other publications," said Carruth.

"At the convention, we plan on passing a resolution which would create uniformity within the educational system. Specifically, this resolution would encompass the idea that junior college courses should be transferable to the state colleges and universities. This transferable transcript should be well understood within our higher educational system," Carruth said.

Workshops were scheduled for the three-day conference to instruct the student leaders on how to run government. They include a presidents' workshop, communications, student organization and service organization, as well as others.

Saturday the state student government committee will meet and installation of officers will take place.

New Residence Statement Due

Students planning to attend Valley next semester must file a new residence statement, according to Kermit Dale, acting dean of admissions. The form is available at the circular counter in the Administration Building Monday through Wednesday and Monday, Nov. 30 and Tuesday, Dec. 1. Students who neglect to do this risk having their registration delayed, Dale said.

Information on Cal Western Available

George Reidenbach, from California Western University of San Diego, will be on campus Friday to inform any interested students about the university. He will be in the office of admissions at 11 a.m.

Prerequisite Set for Chemistry I

Any student planning to take Chemistry I next semester who has not had Chemistry 11 must take a qualifying examination. The examination will be given in A 100 at 11 a.m., Tuesday Dec. 1. This is the only time that the examination will be offered prior to the beginning of registration, according to Kermit Dale, acting dean of admissions.

'101 Drawings Large and Small' Continues Showing on Campus

Numerous prominent names in art headline the current Valley College art show, "101 Drawings, Large and Small," scheduled to continue in the campus gallery through Wednesday, Dec. 16.

Several artists represented in the show are from Los Angeles. Rico Lebrun, prominent Los Angeles artist noted for his figures, has an array of drawings on display including line drawing, wash drawing and pen and ink. Local artist Mesches is also represented with a bold charcoal drawing.

Thomas McBride, noted Los Angeles sculptor, has several of his sculptures in the gallery, bearing such titles as the "Twentieth Century Agammemnon" and the "Death of the Chariteer." Also known for his sculpture is Los Angeles artist Sam Amato, who has a number of drawings in the current show.

Works by Moore

Two works by Henry Moore, renowned English artist, highlight the display. "Henry Moore is perhaps the greatest of English artists alive today," said William Trierweiler, associate director, art gallery. The two pieces, one from Moore's famous "Shelter Sketch Book," were donated to the exhibit by the Santa Barbara Museum of Fine Arts.

The Santa Barbara Museum has provided a number of other works to the drawing display. A sepia, or brownish tone, line drawing by American artist Ben Shahn, and a line drawing of the human figure by famous French sculptor Gaston La Chaise are part of the Santa Barbara Museum's contribution.

Exclusive Drawings

Among the more exclusive drawings in the exhibit are a Henri Matisse ink drawing and a Salvador Dali line drawing in pencil. French artists Matisse is known for countless achievements in many facets of the art world. Spanish born Dali is presently residing in New York. His work was donated to the exhibit by the Heritage Gallery.

The exhibit is characterized by a varied selection of subject matter ranging from such figure studies as Andre Derain's "Figure Study" of a ballet dancer to American artist John Marin's abstract pencil drawing, "Figure on Brooklyn Bridge."

The art department faculty members yesterday held a faculty reception in honor of the drawing exhibit at 2:30 p.m. in the gallery and Art Building patio. Other activities have been planned in conjunction with the show, including artist Joe Magnani speaking on drawing.

Gallery hours are 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 6:30 to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

John F. Kennedy Remembered

"And his truth goes marching on."

It was three days less than a year ago that President John Fitzgerald Kennedy was assassinated. November 22, 1963 will always be remembered as the day that the world stood still for a few frightening, tragic moments.

At the time of President Kennedy's death it seemed as though the world had forever lost one of its greatest benefactors.

Clear thinking in that time of national mourning was impossible, or humanity would have taken solace in the fact that his thoughts and goodness would not be eternally lost.

Now, almost a year later, it can be seen that the beloved President's concepts of truth and justice have not been lost. For in his 46 years on earth, the martyred leader of men gained immortality. In death, as in life, his spirit serves as a driving influence behind forces fighting hatred and injustice.

His life was dedicated to building a better world for his, and all men's children, and he fought until the end to fulfill that goal. He voiced his feelings on the battle of life in 1960 when he said, "The issue facing us is freedom or slavery, we know there is a God, and we know He hates injustice. We see the storm coming, and we know His hand is in it. But if He has a place and a part for me, I believe we are ready."

President Kennedy not only had a part in the fight for goodness, he had the lead. He faced many storms during his all too brief time on earth, and like any mortal man was rocked by many. However, he was too big of a person to ever let adversity stop his drive for justice for all.

His motives and actions were always above reproach. The compassion he had for humanity made him loved, respected and now revered.

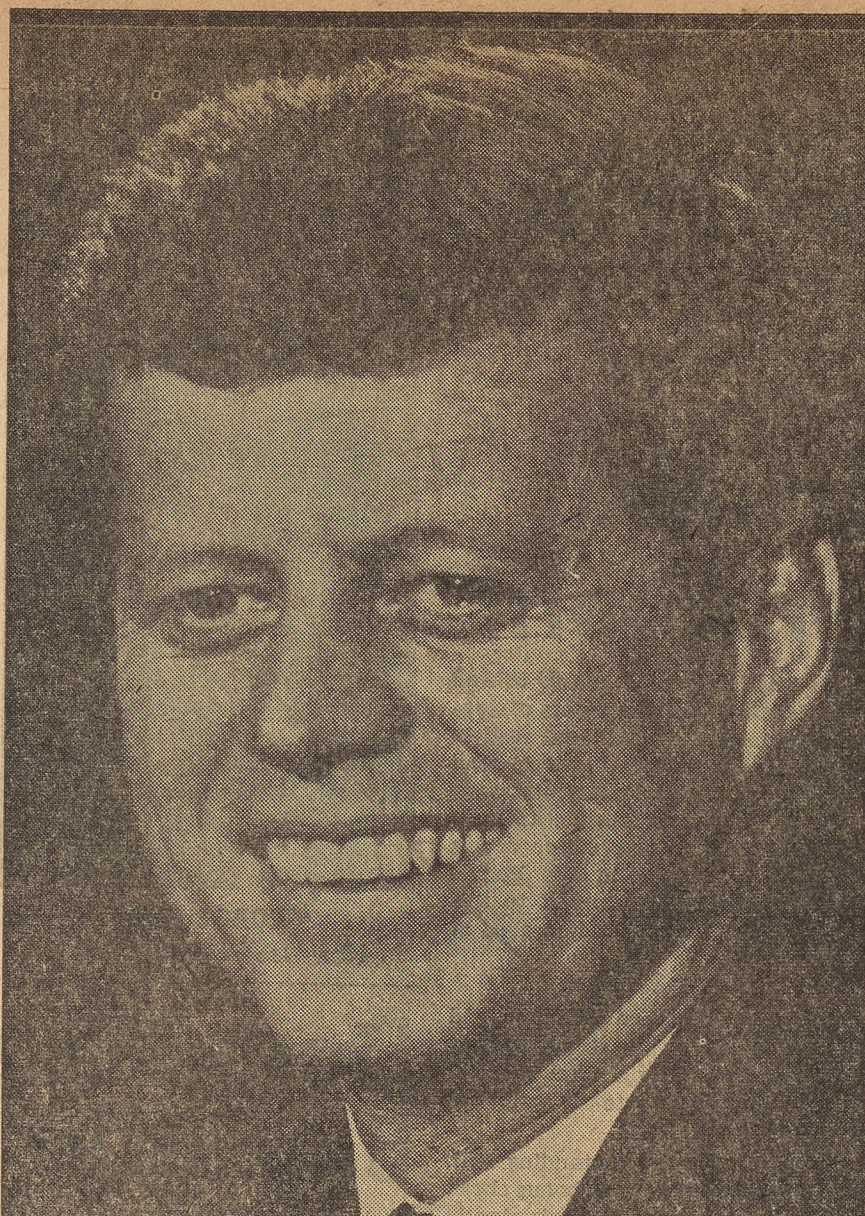

His accomplishments were too many to enumerate, and all were achieved with the humility which marked the man for greatness.

President Kennedy's life was too well lived for a sniper's bullet to destroy. Today, concrete acts, such as written legislation designed to help stamp out hate and poverty, will forever stand as a monument to his goodness and wisdom.

One of the late President's most quoted lines came from his inauguration speech when he said, "Let the world go forth from this time and place, to friend and foe alike, that the torch has been passed to a new generation of Americans—born in this century, tempered by war, disciplined by a hard and bitter peace, and proud of our ancient heritage."

The torch of truth and goodness has too quickly been passed on. But, Americans will never forget the man who held that torch so proudly and who, through his deeds, has gained everlasting life.

Three days less than a year has passed since the world's time of shock and anguish, and it is only now that all can see that President Kennedy did not live his life in vain. The world is fortunate for having known the immortal President John Fitzgerald Kennedy. —DICK SHUMSKY

'My Computer Must Have Blond Hair and...'

By STAN TAYLOR

Sometimes progress can go too far. An era dear to this writer's heart is all but gone, leaving in its wake fond memories and the yellowed, tear-stained pages of dust-covered diaries.

Back in high school they used to throw school dances that were the highlight of the year's activities. Most readers probably remember what went on... the girl's gym was cleaned up and then the lights were turned down so low you couldn't see the place anyway... all the boys lined one side of the room... the girls stood over on the other side and watched the boys comb their hair or cough nervously... in between the two battle lines was no-man's land—the dance floor.

This method is no more. The computer age has put an end to it. Applying data processing, the University of Indiana has solved the problem of school dances.

Nothing is left to unreliable, often unsuitable reasons for one person choosing another to dance with. Such reasons as physical appearance, dancing ability or status in the community (football players rate high) are, according to the U. of I., completely outmoded in light of the machine age.

A GROUP of Indiana students who obviously like business machines more than girls has come up with a foolproof system of matchmaking. It's so simple that anyone could have thought of it.

What the students have done is formulate a list of 20 questions that will indicate the personality and the attitudes of the taker. Every candidate for entrance to a school dance simply fills out the questions with appropriate answers and hopes for the best. It leaves something to be desired.

Tests such as this remind one of the lonely hearts advertisements in the newspapers: "so-and-so rates 35 per cent social, 22 per cent artistic and 1 per cent mental. Wishes to meet suitable female with comparable percentages."

SINCE MACHINES are taking over the process of natural selection, it stands to reason that the computers themselves would make the most perfect dates. After all, they can be constructed to include the qualities most desired by those filling out the cards. So if a person wants a date who likes to talk politics, literature and Zen Buddhist philosophy, chances are a computer would be his best bet.

Personally, I don't want to talk politics, literature and Zen Buddhist philosophy. Or do they make a computer with blond hair?

"You fall down through the sky all knots inside and you swear you'll never do it again. But an hour later or maybe the next day or so, you can't wait to make your next jump," explains business major, Dave Rogers, describing some of what passes through his mind as he relives his initial experience of his hobby, sky diving.

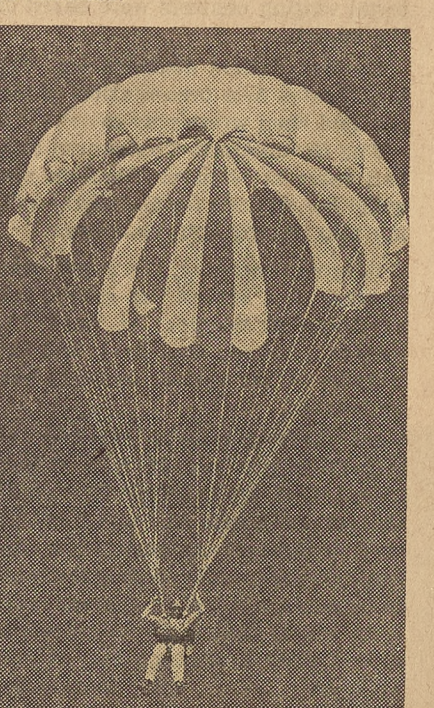

Arms OUT! Legs OUT! Head

These military sounding commands are key body component positions one must execute to make "free falls" (unopened parachute) through the air.

ROGERS is one of 15,000 Americans who make over 80,000 jumps annually in what he terms the greatest of sports, skydiving or sports parachuting.

Claiming to rank as a novice with 34 jumps to his credit, he still anticipates that next jump with keyed-up emotions which he finds difficult to describe.

'Great Society'

By DICK SHUMSKY
Editor

After being elected to a four-year term as President of the United States, Lyndon Baines Johnson has pledged himself to the building of the "Great Society."

President Johnson has spoken out on his determination to carry out the ideas of his predecessor in the White House, the martyred John Fitzgerald Kennedy, who through words and deeds dedicated himself to the betterment of all men of the world.

Many of President Johnson's detractors scoff at the idea of the "Great Society," saying that his motives are strictly political.

Regardless of his motives, President Johnson's goal is admirable. There can be no doubt that the United States is the leader of all nations, but it still can advance in attaining the basic comforts for all Americans.

POVERTY and discontent which are not uncommon in our land must be overcome before complete satisfaction is achieved. Some leaders would have us believe that these problems are not ones which the federal government should concern itself with.

They say that in the United States there is ample opportunity for all men to rise to the top. But, compassionate humans have come to realize that such is not the case. Those Americans who are living in what has been termed as institutionalized poverty can find no escape. A man whose forefathers have been reared in the throes of desperate poverty finds little room for improvement.

Obviously those lost souls must be helped and rational men have come to realize that the federal government should be called upon to play an ever expanding role in the fight to achieve the opportunity for advancement of all men.

LOW COST housing, job retraining and medical assistance are a few pieces of legislation which give the federal government the responsibility in the crucial fight.

Collectively the people of the United States can lick the problems facing the deprived, separately they cannot.

Although many critics of big government live in terror of its vast power, their fears are not well founded. It is unbelievable that a body which is only a mirror of the thoughts of the American electorate can ever prove harmful.

GOVERNMENT serves only to represent, and it in itself offers nothing to fear. With its immense resources it can make tremendous strides in providing comfort for all.

This is not to suggest that in the near future the United States will attain a perfect society, but such a goal is admirable. Those who belittle efforts to help the less fortunate of the world are not promoting the traditions of the United States of freedom, equality and compassion for all.

Raise Kids? Forget It! Their Fate Is Known

By JACKIE HANSEN

Raising boys into mature, responsible adults used to be an uncertain process. Parents could only hope to mold the little fellows into desirable citizens. Setting good examples, proper and firm discipline and lots of love went into the child-rearing plan.

Ah, but that was the good old days. Science, bless it, has discovered a method of predicting delinquency in six-year-old boys and so the uncertainty is ended.

No more sleepless nights when junior is out with the boys if the test proves he will not be delinquent. No more trying to do your best to rear him in the family tradition, he will turn out all right in spite of any of your efforts.

THINK OF THE TIME and effort you will save by not being a pal to your son. He won't need your influence. Science has predicted he will be a fine, upstanding citizen as he grows older.

Now then, think of the anguish when your 10-year-old kicks the family cat. He failed his test and is going to be a delinquent no matter what you do. This is only an example of the violence to follow. Next thing you know, he will be taking Playboy to school as his free reader. Worse still, he may sneak off to see "Cleopatra!"

This marvelous boon to mankind, the predictability of delinquency, was worked out by a husband and wife team of Harvard University criminologists. Professor Sheldon Glueck and his wife Dr. Eleanor Glueck based this prediction on a 10-year study of 301 boys in two schools in New York with a high delinquency rate.

Their decisions were based on supervision of the boy by his mother, discipline of the boy by his mother, and family cohesiveness. Notice anything lacking? Poor old dad was left out in the cold again because—and I quote the Los Angeles Times article—"the father-son relationship was not taken into account because many of the boys did not have fathers..."

WOMEN OF THE WORLD, it is time to unite! We have been blamed for all the evils in this world since Eve ate the apple. Now it seems that mothers and mothers alone determine the delinquency potential of their offspring.

I am probably the world's most psychological ignoramus, but I always thought fathers played some role in the shaping of children. It may be that he is a bad influence in some cases, but by golly he is an influence! I'll bet you all the rats who learned to go through the maze fastest had a good relationship with their fathers.

I ONLY HOPE that the good professors Gluecks confine their studies to New York and possibly Yale. If my six-year-old is to become a delinquent, I don't want to know about it ahead of time. In this case a little knowledge would be a dangerous thing.

This latest contribution to mankind ranks along with other beneficial advances, like the A-bomb and bacterial warfare. Thank you, we will keep our father and take our chances.

Initiatives Too Easily Obtained

The American Free Enterprise System has been dealt a serious blow with the passage of Proposition 13.

Under "13," an established business, the motion picture industry, has been allowed to legislate against competition rather than face it.

Under "13," a dangerous precedent has been set in that the simplicity of "using voters" to advance a private interest has been exploited.

And from beneath the shadow of Proposition 13 lurks a lesson to be learned.

It is too easy for an issue to be brought before the voters. The principle of the initiative is too easily abused. Public relations firms throughout the state guarantee, for a fee, to secure the required number of signatures on a petition to place an issue on the ballot.

Proposition 13 is the first example of the misuse of the initiative. The motion picture theater owners of this state have succeeded in outlawing rather than facing competition.

Theater owners condemned the principle of Pay-TV and yet utilize this very principle in the presentation of championship boxing and other athletic events.

The theater owners have led the public to believe that Pay-TV would bring an end to free television. The very success of the American system, due greatly to competition, indicates that such is not so. Competition has always brought increased strength to the competitors. Competition is what makes this nation great.

Care must be taken to insure that the concept of the initiative is not abused. The requirements for an issue to be placed on the ballot must be raised. The number of signatures needed on an initiative petition should be significantly increased. And legal actions should insure that a place on the ballot cannot be bought from a public relations firm.

Pay-TV has been blocked in California. It is hoped that Pay-TV will have another chance. Pay-TV must have a chance to stand or fall on its own merits, not on the whims of the theater owners and their concern for the all mighty dollar. —BILL SMITH

Excitement Reigns at Football Games

One word can sum up the style in which Valley College football has been played this season... exciting!

Although the team possesses an even record of four wins and four losses, they have played inspired, exciting football worthy of support. And they have been getting the support which had been lacking before this season.

No more does the team run three plays and then kick. Valley has a strong, balanced team, both offensively and defensively. With a few breaks the team could have had an outstanding six and two record. However, two narrow losses to top rated Long Beach 22-14 (number one in the nation) and Santa Monica 41-35, leave the Monarchs the task of defeating tough El Camino for their first winning season since 1959.

The Monarch's talented squad has given the fans good reason for their appreciation. Using the "bomb," Dudley Shusterick (Lion quarterback) has continually engineered the squad to scores. With such speedy, stealthful receivers as Terrel Ray, Bill Hayhoe, Jim Stewart and Phil Mundy who continually leave their defenders flat footed to haul in his well guided tosses, it's no wonder.

Valley uses the ground game to balance the attack, with speedy Phil Culotta, powerful Steve Oakley and elusive Hal Lurtsema carrying the pigskin, for consistent gains, and explosive spurts for long TD runs.

Thousands of fans have seen the Monarchs perform this year and by their continual attendance through fair weather and foul, have shown their appreciation with community support.

Contest Entrants Are Egotists

Dear Editor,

Upon opening your publication last week, I noticed you devoted a few pictures (10, to be exact) to a noteworthy event, Homecoming. The event is worthy of note, to be sure, but it may rate a little less praising and a little more appraising.

Beauty contests are, without a doubt, interesting events; and their importance on the Valley College campus has certainly not been underemphasized by the "Valley Star." In fact, the election of a beauty contest queen is at least twice as important as the election of the student council. This is evident in the published (by the "Star"), endorsed, and much-praised fact that "2300 students voted, which more than doubles any other election in the school's history."

In comparing the great importance of a beauty contest winner with the relatively minute insignificance of the top scholars of the semester—we find that intelligence and hard work are granted a full nine inches at the corner of page five, while each semester the beauty contests can depend on literally pages of coverage, most of it on page one.

To be a bit more frank, I entreat anyone to write into this column and describe one constructive purpose of a beauty contest or a logical reason for its continuance on this campus.

Looking at the institution from a slightly different angle: what possible constructive effect can the vanities involved in such a contest have on the minds of the participants? None that I can see: the negative effects are much more obvious. The girls campaign on the premise that "I am prettier than all my friends here; in fact, I am the most beautiful girl on campus." "Mirror, mirror on the wall..." said the witch. (I do not mean to insult the female intellect here—the contestants have already done an excellent job of this.)

On the other hand, if the contest and the inspection of the beauties is meant to please the men on campus, I confess that I far prefer a woman who is quiet and subtle about her beauty. The woman who campaigns to have her beauty recognized by all men can only be a hopeless egotist.

My beef is against traditions that may have had some genuinely constructive and purposeful reason for their inception, but have somehow lost this "raison d'être" while wallowing through the bogs and marshes of habit, pomp and ceremony. When a tradition becomes not only worthless, but is seen to have a negative effect on the interests of the majority, it deserves to be scrapped.

Luncheon Begins Week of Activities

AWS Women's Week, which begins Nov. 30 and continues through Dec. 4, honors the many women of Valley's student body and offers them varied activities during that week.

The first of the activities to be held will be the Big-Little Sister Luncheon, Dec. 1, at 11 a.m. in the cafeteria. It will take place on behalf of the freshman and sophomore women who signed up for the luncheon during club day.

Together

Summaries of all the women's organizations on campus will be presented by the president of each organization or group that will better acquaint Valley's women with each group.

A second activity features a fashion show and tea. This will take place on Dec. 3, at 2:30 p.m. in the cafeteria. All women of the student body, plus Girls' League presidents and vice principals of neighboring schools, have been asked to attend the show. Clothes shown from the Desmonds and Suburban Shops will be modeled by Valley women. Valley's cheerleaders and student body president, Brent Carruth, will be the escorts for the girls modeling.

Sadie Hawkins

Dec. 4 brings about another Sadie Hawkins Day and dance. Cut offs will be worn throughout the campus and the girls will have the privilege of asking the guys to dance that night from 8 p.m. until midnight to the Zanies, a dance band, and marvel at the Highlighters, a three-girl vocal group.

Herrick Teaches At Asuncion U.

Dr. George Herrick, formerly the chairman of Valley's English Department, is now teaching American literature as a Fulbright exchange teacher at the University of Asuncion in Paraguay.

The Federation of Paraguayan Students has decided to establish the first student-run dorm as a step toward the alleviation of a housing problem at the University. Valley College members have felt a need to help out in this situation.

Through the aid of the faculty, which contributed $80, and by the help of the International Club, who held a swimming party as a fund raising event to bring it $20, Valley was able to send Herrick $100 of the needed $4,000 for the dorms.

Herrick in return has used this money to help furnish the new dormitories. Along with this contribution, a copy of Crown and Manuscript were sent to Herrick who added them to the University library. Herrick, after fulfilling a full year's work in Paraguay, will be returning to Valley College this coming year.

Speaker Questions Respect of Police

"Do the Police Respect Minorities? No." Chuck Stanley, CORE chairman of the Community Relations Committee, will discuss this topic today at 11 a.m. in the Quad.

Stanley is a leader in the Negro freedom movement, is a member of the CORE Speakers Bureau of worked during the last election registering Negro voters.

He also works as a boys' counselor for the County Probation Department.

Professor Fred Schmidt denied that "Rugged Individualism" is the means to individual rights during the Quad-wrangler session last Thursday.

Schmidt is research specialist in the Institute of Industrial Relations at UCLA, a graduate from the University of Texas (former executive secretary of CIO in Texas, secretary-treasurer of CIO-AF of L and was administrative assistant to Congressman Henry Gonzales of San Antonio. At UCLA he researched and wrote the Bracero Labor Report, indicating that California farm labor could be done by Californians.

Amazed at Attack

He said that he was amazed that Professor Robert Anderson, the previous speaker, voiced an attack against the government rather than defending it.

He stated that although each man as an individual should be fiercely defensive and proud of his place in society, he could not be regarded as a rugged individual. As John Donne wrote, "No man is an island entire of itself."

Schmidt elaborated on the concept of individualism as it developed in human societies and brought out the fact that no true individualism ever really existed.

'Inconsistencies'

"In tribal times," he said, "tribal rule was supreme. The glories of Greece rested in the hands of philosophers and kings. The Roman Empire returned to barbarism. In our American Republic inconsistencies existed in the lives of the men who wrote the Constitution and who had slaves in their back yards."

Schmidt brought out that so-called "rugged individualism" led to children in coal mines, long hours of labor with small pay for the individual and exploitation of the many by the few. "It was only the individual infringing on the larger society. It was property rights versus human rights," he said.

"Today is the high water mark of individualism," he said. "Our government has been asked and has taken a larger role to regulate private arrangements. They are laying claim to the fact that between property and the individual, property must give rights to humans. People are the cause and effect of society and the system of values comes from the larger society."

State Cuts Enrollment, Accepts No Freshmen

Valley State College will not accept freshman students for the spring semester. Transfer students with less than 45 units will also be turned away.

Lack of funds to pay additional professors is given as the reason for curtailing enrollment. At present six administrators are back in the classrooms at State to fill the need for instructors.

With the closing of State to freshmen, Valley College is expecting an increase in enrollment above normal. According to Kermit Dale, acting dean of guidance and admissions, 150 to 200 additional students are expected to enroll.

The average enrollment from local high schools is 600 freshmen. With the anticipated increase, nine new instructors have been hired. "The classes may be tight as far as room goes, but we are certain we can handle the increase," said Dale.

"Valley students who are planning to transfer to State will encounter no trouble if they have completed the necessary 45 units and have at least a 2.0 grade point average," he said.

Appointees Fill Council Posts

The Executive Council Tuesday by appointment filled three vacant Council posts.

Sally Case is the new commissioner of student activities filling the vacancy left by the resignation of Brett Cleaver. Miss Case is no newcomer to student government at Valley. This marks her fourth semester on Executive Council.

Bonnie Nixon was appointed corresponding secretary with the recommendation of Lisa Walker whom she is replacing.

Roger Shannon, this semester's yell king, takes over the post of Associated Men Students president from Mike Smith who resigned from Council last week.

In the only other major event of the council's session, Jean Stern, chairman of the constitutional revision committee, presented the new constitution for the Council's consideration.

After a 20-minute discussion period, the council delayed further discussion until the next council meeting, the date of which has not yet been set.

Registration Schedule Announced

Registration for continuing students in day or combination day and evening programs for the spring semester will begin on Dec. 3, according to Kermit Dale, acting dean of guidance and admissions. Schedule for registration will be based on the first letter of the family name.

CLUBS

Ski Club Plans Dance, Trip

By BILL GREENFIELD
Club Editor

For many the first 10 weeks of the semester have flown by. This is due in no small part to the efforts of campus clubs in seeing that students are kept socially busy. Future plans are already in the making, which will make the second half of the semester equally exciting.

The SKI CLUB urges members and anyone interested to attend a pre-season dance to begin at 8 p.m. on Saturday at California State College of Los Angeles' main cafeteria. The event is sponsored by the Southern California Collegiate Skiers, of which our own Ski Club is a member. A live band, continuous ski movies, a fashion show and door prizes will all add to an exciting evening. Tickets costing $1 will be available in the Student Activities Building after 11 a.m. or at the general meeting Tuesday at 11 a.m. in Eng. 102.

There is only one week left before the Ski Club's four-day trip to Mammoth. Local mountains have accumulated many inches of snow, so the success of the trip is assured. The group will leave next Thursday at 7 a.m. from the front of the Administration Building. Participants are urged to be there at 6:30, at which time exact destinations will be determined.

After a successful weekend of rallying, the SPORTS CAR CLUB is preparing for the races at Willow Springs on Nov. 21 and 22. The club is the official flag team for the National Formula Racing Championships being held at the event. For thrills and excitement the club urges enthusiasts to attend. Information on the races and directions to Willow Springs will be available at the club's meeting today at 11 a.m. in Eng. 102.

At the general meeting of the VABS today the forthcoming show trip will be discussed. Betty Taylor of California Federal Savings and Loan will speak about "The Secretary on the Telephone" at Tuesday's meeting at 11 a.m. in C 100. The VABS welcome attendance by interested persons.

The GERMAN CLUB will hold a special meeting on Tuesday at 11 a.m. in FL 104, to discuss plans for the upcoming ice skating party. The club will also continue its series of cultural films by showing "Deutschland Spiegel," a German newsreel.

Applications are now available for anyone interested in joining CORONETS, an on campus honorary service organization. The semi-annual membership drive will begin Nov. 30 and continue through Dec. 4. The application forms may be acquired from faculty members, Coronets or personnel in B 24.

Okinawa-te, a classical form of karate, will be demonstrated by Gordon Doversola, master of this ancient art, today at 11 a.m. in the Art Building, on behalf of the ART CLUB. This little-known art develops its attack through dance-like movements with descriptive names such as the Tiger, the Standing Tree, the Falling Leaf, the Spear and the Mace.

The COMPUTER CLUB will sponsor a semi-annual computer open house on Nov. 24 and 25, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The purpose of the event will be to demonstrate the usefulness of the digital computer. Computer Club President Russell Hogue invites everyone to attend.

Women are reminded to pick up their invitation to the Women's Week fashion show and tea, sponsored by AWS. Invitations will be sent to the gym instructors and will be given out to the students. Identical invitations will be sent to the faculty.

An ice skating party, put on by the STUDENT CALIFORNIA TEACHERS ASSOCIATION, is scheduled for tomorrow at 8:30 p.m.

HILLEL is holding a Can Party on Saturday at 8 p.m. in the home of Toni Kaufman, 13418 La Maida. Admission is two cans per person. Refreshments will be served. A committee meeting will be held today at the Center on Burbank Blvd. at 11 a.m.

Holiday plans were made at Tuesday's meeting of SIGMA NU ALPHA, student nurse organization, and Dec. 5 was chosen for the annual Christmas party given by the sophomores. The party will be held in the Fieldhouse from 7:30 p.m. to midnight, with family and friends of members invited.

With the elections over, the JFK YOUNG DEMOCRATS are planning to continue the policy of presenting controversial speakers and films. A party is in the planning for sometime in December. The Young Democrats meet every Tuesday at 11 a.m. in C 101.

Hostesses are needed for the VETERANS CLUB dance. Anyone who desires further information should attend the club meeting on Thursday at 11 a.m. in B 73.

ART LECTURE

A slide-illustrated lecture on the background and influences on the life and works of El Greco, famous Spanish painter, will be given by Angelo Villa, associate professor of Spanish, tonight at 8 in the cafeteria.

The lecture, lasting about one and one-half hours, is sponsored by the Spanish Club. It is free to the public and refreshments will be served. Slides of the painter's life in Crete, where he was born, Italy and Spain, as well as slides of his works, will be shown.

Journalists Have Panel

"Mutual sympathy, understanding and cooperation are essential to good relationships between college newspapers and the office of student activities," said Mrs. Ada Burke, adviser of student activities at Ventura College.

The occasion of her remarks was a panel discussion in which she participated at the recent national convention of Beta Phi Gamma. Designed to help journalism advisers discuss the areas of conflict or cooperation with student activities offices, the panel was held at the Sportsman's Lodge last Saturday.

Panel Members

Other panel members were Dr. James Fitzgerald, recent adviser of student activities, Orange Coast College; Bill Kamrath, El Camino College and Lewis Barret, Fullerton Junior College, both journalism advisers. Moderator was John Whelan, L.A. Harbor College journalism adviser.

Topics under discussion included freedom of the press, selecting the editor of campus newspapers, the responsibility of the activities office in publicizing projects and the reliability and accuracy of campus publications.

Defend Publications

Professor Kamrath defended campus publications by saying, "Campus newspapers are the last great frontier for error. Students responsible for publishing the papers are in a learning situation. When they get out into the world, there is no place for errors. Contrary to popular belief, we don't encourage mistakes, but when they occur, we feel the student has learned something from it," he said.

Teachers Speak On Near East

World literature classes at Valley College will present a special program devoted to the literature and culture of the Near East tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Lounge.

Dr. Arnold Fletcher, associate professor of history, will speak on the historical and cultural roots of Muslim literature. Dr. Fletcher was recently appointed to the Asia Studies program.

Other speakers include Dr. Richard Yang and Stanley Jones of the USC Oriental department, and Frank Chookalingo of Pierce College.

Students on the committee are Mrs. Bonnie Sawyer, Mrs. Myrtle Daulton, Les Stuart and Linda Gold.

Cagers Open Season Against Alumni Team

By EDWARD GOLDENBERG

After the near freezing weather the Valley sports fan was treated to last Saturday night at the football game, the schedule maker has come to the rescue by scheduling the Valley vs. Alumni annual cage encounter in the Men's Gym Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Returning lettermen from last year's team, which finished fifth in the Metro Conference with a 5-9 record, are Leonard McElhannon, Willie Hearn, Terry Scott, Charles Campione and Max Meek.

Although standing only five feet ten inches, guard McElhannon led the Monarch scorers last year with a 22.4 average in conference play.

Starting at the other guard spot will be six-footer Scott.

At the center spot for the Lions will be last year's outstanding rebounder, six foot five inch Hearn. The former all-conference honorable mention selection pulled down 11 rebounds per game while averaging 11.7 points.

Filling out the other two starting berths on Coach Ralph Caldwell's squad will be last year's all-Southern League first stringer from Los Angeles High, Carey Smith at forward, and either John Hindenach or John Woolery at the other forward.

Speaking about his two rookie forwards, Coach Caldwell said, "They show great promise and they both will see a lot of action for us this year."

"The primary reservation I have about the squad is its lack of height," said Coach Caldwell while explaining that the success of his team will depend on a great deal on its ability to play a running game.

Scheduled to play for the Alumni are a couple of the stars from last year's team, Tom Selleck and Jim Zimmerman.

There is still an outside chance that one of Valley's all-time greats, Jack Hirsh, who played on last year's UCLA national championship team, will suit up for the Alumni.

Lion Harriers Climax Year At El Camino

Valley College's cross country team ended its "conference season" when they traveled to El Camino College yesterday afternoon to compete in the Metropolitan conference cross country finals.

Last Friday afternoon at North Hollywood Park the Monarchs completely surprised Coach Ray Ceniceroz' Huskies as Tony Borio finished third in 17:46.

Even though Valley looked impressive against ELA, the Lions still managed to be on the losing side of an 18-45 score.

"This is the first time that East Los Angeles hasn't finished first, second and third in conference competition," said Coach Charlie Mann.

Valley placed third, ninth, tenth, twelfth, thirteenth and fourteenth against the Huskies.

Heading the field was Borio in third, while Terry Cheever, timed in 19:37 finished ninth, Marty U'Ren, tenth in 19:39 and Steve Shepherd came in twelfth clocked in 21:44. John Thelen and James Arnold placed thirteenth and fourteenth, but there were no times posted.

Leading the Huskies to victory were Rick Martinez, who along with Ed Peraza broke the course record in 17:37. Peraza's time was 17:39. Finishing fourth through eighth were Ernie Calderon (18:30), Art Uranga (18:30), John Karnoff (18:34), Tony Guerra (18:34) and Leon Santa Cruz (19:19).

Rounding out the Husky finishers was John Adame, eleventh in 19:54.

Next Tuesday the Southern California cross country meet will be held at Pierce College with 30 teams competing.

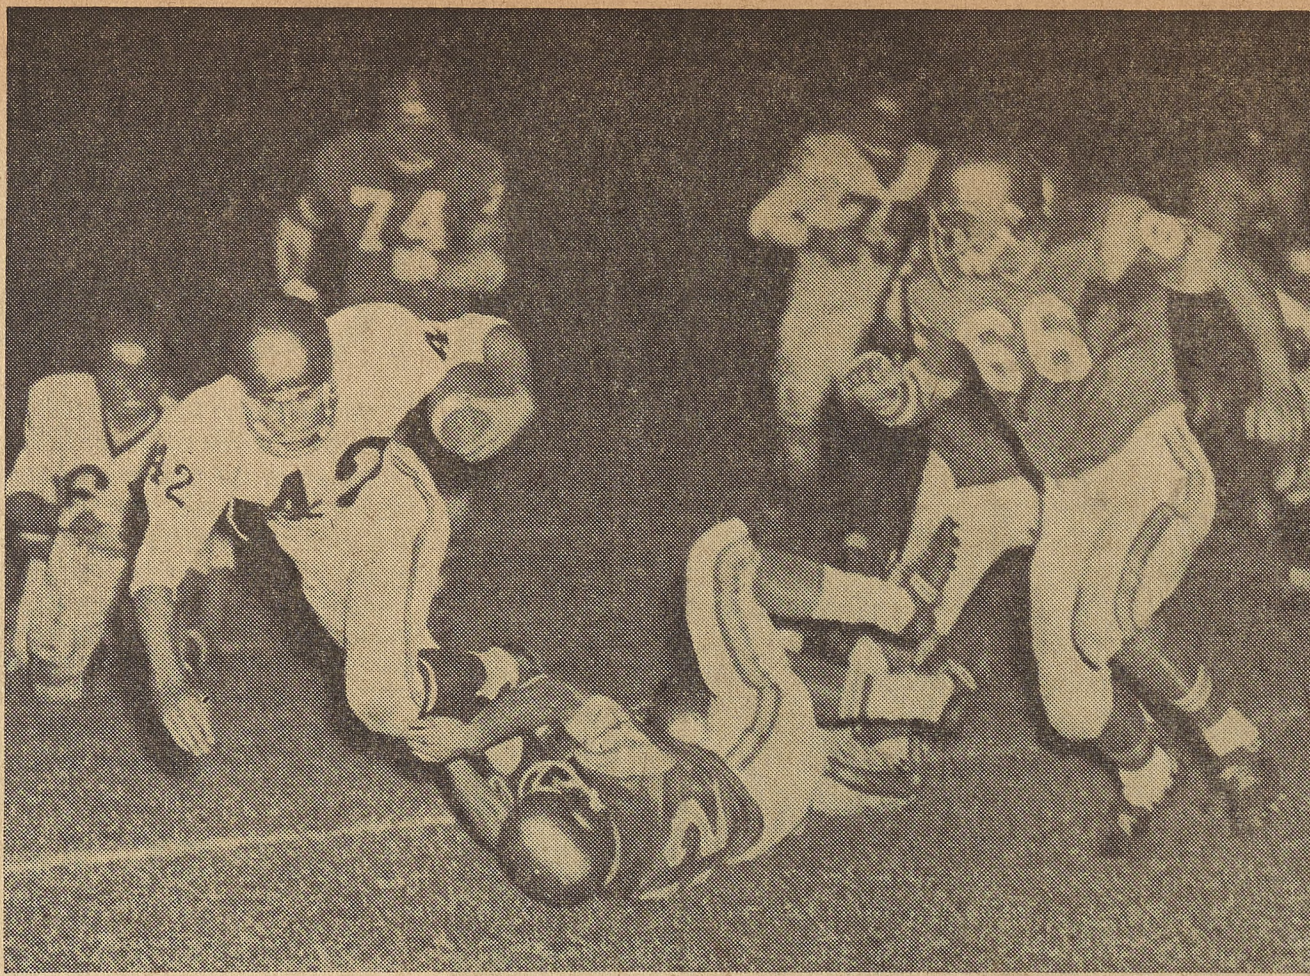

The top teams from all the Southern California conferences will be competing. They are Metropolitan, Western State, Southwestern, Eastern, and San Diego Section.

MURAL SIGNUPS

Sign-ups are being taken in the men's Gym for the open-class intramural competition.

The events are archery, men's single tennis, women's single tennis, men's double tennis, weight lifting and wrestling.

Winners in the open-class division will meet the inter-class champions for the All-College Championship.

season, the Monarch team could only muster one win, that being over East Los Angeles, and finished with a 1-8 record. In 1963 the Lions beat San Francisco and East Los Angeles but still finished down the line on the final standings.

Winning Team

This year Coach Ker finally found a winning team. With one game remaining the Monarchs have a 4-4 record and could possibly field the first winning team since 1959.

As McFarland looked back on the past seasons he said, "Coach Ker has done a great job with the men he has had. After three years of coaching two major sports he richly deserves a rest."

Coach Goff will delay naming his new coaching staff until later this year when the physical education department is reorganized.

Valley Eleven Flattens Mesa Despite Biting Cold Weather

By STEVE CHATON
Sports Editor

One of the coldest nights of the year occurred last Saturday at the Valley-San Diego Mesa football game, but the Monarchs weathered the storm as "a ray of sunshine" appeared to guide them to a 22-14 win.

Terrel Ray took on the appearance of the heavenly body and the freshman speedster turned on his speed to pace the Monarchs with 14 of the 22 points. The elusive flanker took a Mesa punt on his own 33-yard line and took off down the sidelines before any Olympian could lay a hand to him for his first touchdown.

For Ray's second score he took in a short pass from Dudley Schusterick on the sidelines and turned on the speed to leave all defenders in the dust. Before the debris had cleared, Valley had erased the 14 point gap that Mesa had built in the first quarter and led 15-14.

The Monarchs climaxed a 22 point second quarter when Schusterick spotted end Jim Stewart in the clear and the two teamed for a 24-yard touchdown play. Geoff Duncan got the call for the point after and promptly parted the uprights for the score.

Mesa Plays Well

San Diego Mesa played nothing like the first year college they are. Coach John Kovac brought a team of highly skilled and determined players that gave Valley a tough run for the money.

The Olympian's halfbacks Tom Turner and Bruce Branstrom constantly pierced the Valley line for lengthy gains and totaled 71 and 57 yards. Mesa's quarterback Jim Crossley completed 4 of 8 passes for 54 yards.

San Diego took an early lead in the first period when Turner took a hand-off off tackle and sped into the end zone for the score. Bruce Radabaugh kicked the point after. The drive started on Valley's 37-yard line after halfback Phil Culotta fumbled.

Swope's Kick Blocked

After the kickoff Valley took possession, but the drive stalled inside their own 30-yard line. Don Swope's kick was blocked, and Mesa's Art Smith smothered the ball in the end zone for another San Diego touchdown. Radabaugh again kicked the PAT.

Valley's coach George Ker had nothing but praise for the strong Mesa team, but also was pleased with the play of his own team. "Our line let them run most of the time but stopped them when they had to," Ker said.

Broken Hand

Valley still has one more game to go, against El Camino. At one point in the second quarter things looked bad for the Monarchs. Schusterick was knocked down behind the line and a San Diego lineman stepped on his hand.

Ker said, "The break is slight and is on his left hand so he still may be able to play against the Warriors. Ray also injured his hand and was playing in a bandage, but it didn't seem to hinder him."

SCORE BY QUARTERS

San Diego Mesa 14 0 0 0-14
Valley 0 22 0 0-22

San Diego scoring: TD—Turner (2-yard run), Smith (recovery of blocked punt in end zone). PAT—Radabaugh 2 (kicks).

Valley scoring: TD—Ray 2 (67-yard punt return, 39-yard pass from Schusterick), Stewart (24-yard pass from Schusterick). PAT—Ray (pass from Schusterick), Duncan 2 (kicks).

Valley Grid Season Ends at El Camino

By V. J. PALLOS
Assistant Sports Editor

Though Valley's football season seems to have just begun, the schedule will reach its conclusion Saturday when the Monarchs travel to El Camino College to settle fourth place in the Metropolitan Conference. Game time is 8 p.m. in the Warriors' ultra-modern 12,000 seat arena.

Of the dozen times the two teams have clashed since 1952, Valley has managed only four wins. El Camino presently owns a five-year hex on the locals, not losing a series game since 1958 when the Lions knocked off the Warriors to begin a four game winning streak.

Both colleges possess 2-3 Metro marks this season. El Camino downed Santa Monica, 28-21, and East Los Angeles, 35-0. Losses were to Cerritos, 33-13, Long Beach, 21-14, and Bakersfield, 15-3.

Comparing Valley's results, the Lions also defeated East L. A., 26-6, and upset Cerritos by a missed conversion, 7-6. Losses were to the Vikings, 22-14, and Renegades, 61-25.

If a comparison was to be made as to total strength of the two teams, both defeated non-conference foe San Diego Mesa by one touchdown, and ironically it was a come-from-behind win in each instance. On paper, the game appears a toss-up, though

El Camino has found a "gift" 16th spot in the National JC Grid ratings.

Monarch head coach George Ker has announced no changes in his starting lineup against a team with nine lettermen on its offensive first string. Overall, El Camino has 20 returnees from last season's fourth place squad.

A big question mark in Warrior coach Ken Swearingen's (head mentor since 1962) offense at the beginning of the season was a quarterback. Pat Pagett (160) rallied to fill the need, and according to Swearingen, has turned in some fine performances.

Because of an injury to first string fullback Daryl Wilson three weeks ago, El Camino has lost much of its punch up the middle and has resorted to a Monarch forte, the pass patterns.

End Richard Eber (163) is Pagett's favorite receiver. One of two freshmen on the starting eleven, Eber has gathered in two TD tosses thus far, and has gained over 400 yards via the air.

Halfback Phil Pomeroy (185) is the Warriors' best runner and also is a double threat. The former Mt. Carmel High School quarterback is good at throwing the short pass to his wingback Ron Fowler (173) and tight end Steve Bucher (215).

If the Monarchs are to send halfback Phil Culotta (180) and fullback Steve Oakley (195) plowing through the middle of the defensive line, the local forward wall will have to move El Camino's 280 pound middle guard Rich Cooper. According to Swearingen, few teams have run the middle effectively while Cooper was plugging the hole.

Overall average defensive line weight of the Warriors is 236 pounds to the offense's 209. Valley will counter with tackles Mike Scarpace (235) and Ron Heiman (235), guards James Glavey (230) and Jim Bradley (180) and center Mike Haben (220) on offense.

Scarpace and Heiman will play both ways on the line with the addition of Tom Thompson, John Cicuto, Richard Donald and John Shelton.

"We're sure like this one," said Ker. "El Camino is a good team and has proven it. Valley will have to play one of its best games of the season to win."

Baseball's Loss Is Valley's Gain

Borio Prefers Cross Country

By BARRY GOLDMAN

Waiting just two weeks to satisfy a sports love—baseball—would be sufficient for most athletes, but not for cross country man Tony Borio.

When Borio first entered St. John Vianney—the high school from which he was graduated, the school had a rule which states that you can't participate in sports for a year, so he had to wait to gain his eligibility.

After waiting the year out, he became eligible to participate and at the time it was two weeks until baseball practice started, so he decided he couldn't wait that long and ran cross country instead.

It was just as well for Valley's harriers that Borio chose cross country instead of baseball, because he is now holding down the spot of top man on the squad.

Last Friday at North Hollywood Park, Borio broke his own record (that he established this year against Long Beach) running a time of 17:46 against East Los Angeles' Huskies, but still finished third behind ELA's Rick Martinez and Ed Peraza. Earlier in the season Borio set the North Hollywood Park record, clocking an 18:01.5.

Many times during the year Borio has sparked Coach Charlie Mann's harriers to victories, finishing first against Bakersfield, Santa Monica City College and Antelope Valley College.

Commenting on this year's Metropolitan Conference competition Borio said, "I think we could have taken conference without any trouble this season if James Arnold, John Thelen and Terry Cheever ran up to their abilities. Arnold pulled a muscle before the season started then when he tried to get back in shape he re-injured it. John Thelen got sick just before the season started and Terry Cheever was ineligible for two weeks."

"Next year the squad should fare very well against conference competition," continued Borio. "We have Arnold, Thelen and U'Ren coming back." Cheever and Steve Shepherd are graduating.

At St. John Vianney, Borio was coached by Jim Stephens, who in his eyes "is the best coach I ever had."

He also runs the 880, mile and two mole. At Vianney he broke the school record for the mile, running a 4:35. His best times for the 880 and two mile are 2:00 and 9:42.

Borio admits that he is one boy that "hates to take second." "Cross country is all individuals. Sure you'd like your team to win, but I'm running for myself. I don't want anyone else to finish ahead of me, but of course, if that's the way it has to be, okay."

When the freshman first came to Valley he didn't think that he'd be first man on the team, since then he has received a lot of praise, especially from Coach Mann, who earlier in the year compared Borio to Dick Krenzer (a former Valley cross country great).

"Personally, I've never seen Krenzer run, but I heard that he was pretty good. I'd just be satisfied with just finishing ahead of the field in every meet that I run in, instead of being compared with someone else."

If you are ever driving down Burbank Blvd. and see a husky athlete running down the street in sweats, it's bound to be Tony Borio preparing for his next meet.
